

DESCRIPTIVE LANGUAGE "LIFTER"

When you are the "Descriptive Language Lifter," your job requires post-it notes. As you're reading, look for significant passages that are examples of descriptive language (similes, metaphors, alliteration, personification, and onomatopoeia). Then plop post-it notes on the pages beside the examples to help you remember what you found, and where. When you're finished reading the section, use the graphic organizer below to complete your task:

Passage (quote as much of it as you can)	Page where it is found	Type of descriptive language ("example of...")

(M. Martin, 2007)